Hello, Young Scientists!

It's an honour to be able to share my appreciation your intellectual contributions to science today and into the future. With the pandemic changing the way we all live, your work and accomplishments being highlighted today at the Abdus Salam Science Fair are even more impressive. The world has become more keenly aware of the importance of good science and science-based decision-making, and your education and creative approaches to science gives me so much hope for the future.

I wish each of you the best of luck at the Science Fair, and that you take away a well-deserve sense of accomplishment and fun from this experience!

Warmly,

Laurel Collins
MP for Victoria
